Features of trading with an advisor

This Expert Advisor can be used without fear of losing the account, since it does not sit out losing trades and has a clear cut. Of course, when using it, you need to use an adequate trading lot size (risk size).

From my personal experience, I can say that the results of this advisor may differ from month to month, sometimes there are more successful months, sometimes less, but the main thing is that the risk is always controlled.

Here are some personal life hacks that I have noticed and use in trading with this EA:

- If in recent days I have made a good profit with this EA and I have had many positive trades, I can stop trading after the first losing trades (I argue that there was a favorable market cycle and the EA followed it exactly)
- if I get several consecutive losses, I can postpone trading for several days (I argue that the market cycle is apparently unfavorable right now)
- There is a time when the results alternate 2 profitable trades in a row one loss, at such a moment, sometimes after a losing one, I put a lot 2 times more and get 2 times more profit (this is risky, but this risk is necessary in trading)

- If the set files start to show bad results systematically, I optimize for the current market. Sometimes it is worth looking at whether the daily volatility has changed, and based on this, adjust the TP and SL size.

Optimization

Optimize the EA using the 1 year + 6 months Forward testing interval.

Evaluate the results by the number of trades as well as the "Recovery Factor" indicator. For the best results, test on a demo account, and then go to Real.

It is recommended to carry out optimization if you see that the advisor systematically begins to receive unprofitable trades, it is worth adjusting the settings approximately once a quarter or every six months.

You can read more about optimization in this article: https://seniortrader.ru/optimizaciya-sovetnikov-v-mt5-v-2019-godu/

The difference between EA Long Term Strategy the Full version and the EURUSD version

The main difference is that the Long Term Strategy EURUSD version trades only on the EURUSD pair, the Long Term Strategy Full version can work on any instrument.
This division was made because the advisor personally showed the most persistent results for me on the EURUSD pair, and I did not optimize it especially for other pairs, but perhaps you can fine-tune it for other pairs, so you can always get the full version of the advisor if necessary.

Ending

This strategy has been tested by me personally, it has very good results with skillful handling.

Be sure to download and try to trade with an advisor on the strategy tester.

I wish you a successful trading!
