

It does not matter that it repaints – if they are used after the event to draw trap lines in association with a divergence/convergence oscillator, then this will reduce the amount of false entries dramatically.

